

Science should stimulate curiosity and excitement, allowing children to discover and be left wanting more.

